Search and find

The Library of Economics and Management and Lund University offer a wide range of systems and tools which can be useful when searching for information.

LUBcat - library catalogue

Search for books and journals in our library catalogue LUBcat, which is common for all Lund University Libraries. Here you can see if the item is available and where it is placed. You can also make reservations and check your loans.

LUBsearch - common search engine

LUBsearch is a collective entry point to all the libraries' joint resources. Through a single search field, you can find articles, journals, doctoral theses and books. If you are outside the University campus, log in with your Student or Lucat account to access the full texts.

LUBsearch

Databases A-Z - search for a specific database or for databases within a specific subject.

ePublications - search for e-books and journals.

LUBsearch & Electronic Resources - more information about LUBsearch

Subject Guides

The library subject guides are a good starting point when you, for example, are looking for material for your essay. Here you can find useful links to databases, encyclopedias, statistics, news and more. You can also find information about how to find information.
